

2018 STATE OF THE STREETS

inform your mobility decisions

No Time-Limit Metered Parking Pilot

This one-year pilot is an effort by the City of Vancouver to improve availability of short-term parking in Strathcona while also providing longer-term parking options for commuters. Our Mobility Advocacy Plan—MAP Strathcona—supports testing new street parking strategies.

The Strathcona BIA is engaging businesses about their experience with the pilot project and sharing that information with the City. Our map highlights how often certain spots are used between 11am and 3pm. All data is provided by the City of Vancouver and based on recent monitoring.

Better Bus Stop Experience in Strathcona

Part of our upcoming MAP Strathcona work will include advocating for improved bus stop amenities and safety features at existing transit stops in the area. We also plan to engage members around how a 95-B-line bus stop in Strathcona could impact transit in our community. Have thoughts on this? Get in touch at info@strathconabia.com.

More Transportation News in Strathcona

MAP Strathcona supports improving active transportation facilities and connections while also supporting efficient goods movement. The Alexander Street Bikeway reached the installation phase in May 2018. The SBIA helped facilitate meetings between City project staff and adjacent businesses to the new bikeway. As a result, an important loading bay for goods movement and business needs at Powell St and Hawks Ave will be accommodated. A small section of protected path will be introduced in two phases over 2018 and 2019 and has minimal impact on the width of the road, maintains parking, and allows for loading and delivery. The right turn off the Powell St overpass onto Hawks Ave will be banned to reduce conflicts at this intersection.

#WalkStrathcona

The SBIA continues to work and advocate for making our neighbourhood more walkable. Experience our walkable street gallery, 10 Blocks of Passion, which features five art pieces inspired by the work, passion, and narratives of our community. We hope to inspire more people from across the Lower Mainland to #WalkStrathcona and learn more about what makes us one of Vancouver's most inspiring neighbourhoods.

Look out for an improved crossing on Clark Drive! In Fall 2018, a new crosswalk with pedestrian controlled flashing lights is scheduled to be installed on Clark Dr at Frances St.
